Red flags when boarding your pet

Choosing where to board your pet is an important decision. You want to know they'll be safe, comfortable, and cared for while you're away. A quick check for common red flags can help you avoid problems and feel confident your pet is in good hands.

What to watch out for:

- 🚩 Poor cleanliness — strong odors, dirty kennels, or unclean common areas
- 🚩 Limited staff or no visible supervision
- 🚩 No vaccination requirements for all animals
- 🚩 Unclear or restrictive visiting hours
- 🚩 No emergency plan or vet on call
- 🚩 Staff who avoid answering questions directly
- 🚩 No clear feeding, exercise, or medication routines
- 🚩 Overcrowding or unsafe enclosures
- 🚩 No trial day or meet-and-greet option

Before you choose:

- ✓ Tour the facility in person — trust your senses!
- ✓ Ask for references or reviews.
- ✓ Confirm what's included (playtime, walks, feeding schedules).
- ✓ Understand policies for emergencies or illness.

Wellthy's Care Team can help you find trusted, reputable boarding facilities, review your options, and ask the right questions — so your pet stays safe, healthy, and comfortable while you're away.
